A message from Kath Pickering

I love birthdays. No matter how old I am (and no, I'm not telling!) I love the excuse for a party or celebration. I write this in May as we are heading towards Pentecost, sometimes known as the birthday of the Christian Church.

Pentecost celebrates the story from Acts chapter 2 (found in the New Testament or second half of the Bible). Having died on the cross, risen from the grave, and appearing to small and large groups of people over 40 days, Jesus then leaves for heaven (which we celebrate on Ascension Day). Before he goes, he promises his followers that he will send the Holy Spirit to help, equip and guide them. On the day which became known as Pentecost, Jesus' followers were filled with the Holy Spirit giving them power (and languages) to share the story of Jesus with crowds of people from many nations who were gathered in Jerusalem for a Jewish festival. The result was 3000 people being baptised that day who then spread the Christian faith back to their own cities and countries. Thus Pentecost became the day the church was born.

We are also celebrating a special birthday at St Peter's this year, as the church turns 160 on July 5th. For the historians and church geeks among you it has sometimes been assumed our birthday is St Peter's Day (known as our patronal festival, and which usually falls on the Armed Forces weekend) but St Peter's was actually consecrated on 5 July 1866. But we are beginning to celebrate early so we can make the most of being 160 years old and still a lively, active, faith filled church! Our hope is that as a church we continue to gather to worship God, grow our faith and that the Holy Spirit helps us to go share the good news about Jesus and the love of God with our community. As we do, we continue to be one small part of that now global church that was born that first Pentecost and now comes in all shapes, styles and sizes around the world.

Here at St Peter's we are busy planning a few events to celebrate our birthday over the next few months – after all we will be 160 all year! So watch this space for our celebrations and ways you can join with us to celebrate 160 years of St Peter's Cleethorpes.

Blessings, Rev Kath

What does St Peter's Church mean to me?

Thoughts and Memories and the Future

One of the great privileges of the bride's father is to walk with her down the nave aisle of the church where she is to be married. Thus, I had this happy duty one Epiphany Feast Day, twenty years ago at Saint Peter's Church, where the Christmas decorations were still, with a little bit of refreshment, being a welcoming sight. The service was conducted by our friend, the Rev Dr Derek Webster and the Choir accompanied by Carl Leyerzapf on the organ and piano sang beautifully. It was a day of great enjoyment for all, including the Happy Couple, Helen and Uwe.
John Macnaughton-Jones.

I remember stewardship suppers in the 1980s when some of us were given the task of being hostesses. We each had a list of names and addresses of parishioners who we had to visit, taking invitations, then follow up to make sure we had replies from everyone - all done with strict deadlines. On the night, we each had a table and we looked after 'our' guests. there must have been at least 80 folk who sat down to a substantial meal. I had nothing to do with the catering but given the numbers present there must have been a large team who had worked all day in the kitchen preparing the delicious food. After the meal there would be a talk from the treasurer encouraging us all to dig deep and increase our giving. They were enjoyable evenings.

I also have memories of several flower festivals over the years. The first one that I was involved in was in the 1970s and I remember working with a friend to do a window sill depicting the hymn 'For all the Saints. Another year the displays depicted the church calendar. The most recent festival of course was 10 years ago when we worked with members of the Flower Club and the theme was 'Church through the Ages' and as well as all the displays there was an exhibition put on by the Great Grimsby Family History Group. All these events involved a huge amount of planning and many people put in a lot of time. It was always a pleasure and a privilege to be involved.

To me being a part of the St Peter's community means sharing faith, sharing friendship and sharing a history reaching back 160 years while looking to the future.

As a member of St Peter's for 25 years, I am excited about the new ideas that have surfaced. Thank you Rev Kath, you have given us a vibrant forward looking vision that honours our traditions while still embracing the future.

New series of films marks contribution of self-supporting ministers

The Church of England's 'gifted, talented and brilliant' self-supporting ministers are celebrated in a series of films recently published, ahead of Vocations Sunday.

A hairdresser, a data consultant, a solicitor and a teacher, all of whom are priests, speak about their dual vocations in the secular workplace and in churches.

The Bishop of Birkenhead, Julie Conalty, the lead bishop for the Church of England's more than 2,000 self-supporting ministers, also features in the films. She speaks about the distinctive nature of the role and the gifts these ministers bring to workplaces and church congregations.

A former probation officer, she was a self-supporting minister over more than a decade, in the probation service and subsequently for the Youth Justice Board, a national charity and a local authority.

"I see how many gifted, talented and brilliant self-supporting ordained ministers that we have around the church, some of them are associates helping out around parishes, some are running parishes as the vicar or as the incumbent, some work in chaplaincy - they do all sorts of things," she said.

She added: "I can think of self-supporting ordained ministers who are vets, or teaching assistants or doctors, and their professional and work experience brings something distinctive to their ministry."

The Revd Anthea Mitchell, a hairdresser who is a part-time priest in charge at St Andrew's Church in Barming Heath, Maidstone, Kent, said: "I run services, I do baptisms and I take funerals and weddings, and I run a community café – all the things you would expect a vicar to do.

"I suppose the longest part of my ministry, in terms of the time I spend, is at work, in the business. I go to work to cut people's hair and I do wear my collar.

"I can honestly say that I have more deeply spiritual conversations when people are sitting in my chair, than I ever do in church."

The Revd Henry Akingbemisilu, a data consultant and a self-supporting minister at St Paul's Church, Thamesmead in southeast London, who also works as a Forces chaplain, said his professional training as a data consultant has taught him how to analyse and explain complex situations simply. "It helps me to discern people and identify where there is a problem," he said.

He added: "The church is looking for people who live their faith in the ordinary life".

The Revd Rebecca Lloyd, a solicitor in Warrington and a hospital chaplain, also helps her local church, St James, Great Sankey, with ministry and conducts baptisms, weddings and funerals. She said: “As a self-supporting minister, it’s great, I get to be a blessing to the local church. On a general week I will help with Sunday ministry, with cell groups, school ministry. All the bits of the life of the church – I get involved as much as I want to. I will cover funerals, and baptisms and weddings, all across the town.”

The Revd Canon Lyndon Bannon, who works in the senior leadership of an Academy in the Wirral, and is an associate priest at Christ Church, Willaston, said: “I believe that I am called to work in school – I also believe that I am called to be a priest in church. Having that dual role helps me to understand the society in which we live in a broader and deeper way.”

Welcome Service for Bishop of Grimsby

St Peter’s was represented at the Service of Welcome for The Rt Revd Jean Burgess, Bishop of Grimsby at Lincoln Cathedral on Sunday 26th April.

This was a gathering for the whole Diocese of Lincoln to welcome Bishop Jean and celebrate this new chapter in our common life. It reflected Bishop Jean’s particular pastoral care for the north of our diocese, alongside her wider ministry as a bishop for the whole Church in Greater Lincolnshire. She will be our strategic lead for Mission and Evangelism across the diocese, and our new Chair of the Diocesan Board of Education

This service followed the February Service of Consecration as the new Bishop of Grimsby by the Archbishop of York during a special service at Southwark Cathedral, marking a historic moment for the Diocese of Lincoln. Jean is the first woman to become a bishop in the diocese.

ONE SOLITARY LIFE

There is a young man who was born in an obscure village, the child of a peasant woman.

He worked in a carpenter's shop until he was thirty,
Then for three years he was a itinerant preacher.
He never wrote a book. He never held an office.
He never owned a home. He never had a family.
He did none of those things we normally associate with greatness
He had no credentials but himself.

While he was still a young man, the tide of public opinion turned against him.
His friends ran away, he was turned over to his enemies.
He went through the mockery of a trial. He was nailed to a cross between two thieves.

While he was dying, his executioners gambled for the only piece of property he had on earth, and that was his coat.

When he was dead, he was laid in a borrowed tomb through the pity of a friend.

TWENTY CENTURIES HAVE COME AND GONE, and today he is the central figure of the human race, and the leader of the column of progress.
All the armies that ever marched, all the navies that ever sailed, all the parliaments that ever sat, all the kings that ever reigned put together,
Have not affected the life of man upon this earth as has that,

ONE SOLITARY LIFE

Heather Hammond found this amongst some Mothers' Union papers and has shared it with us all.

The Seven Deadly Sins: Gluttony

'They're called deadly because they lead to the death of the soul.' (Richard Newhauser).

This month we are looking at Gluttony. Which food do we find hardest to resist?

It is reported that 66% of adults in the UK are overweight or obese. Gluttony is indulgence to excess, usually involving food, but can also include drinking, screen time, shopping etc.

Paul warns us about the dangers of gluttony when he refers to those whose minds are set on earthly things: 'their destiny is destruction, their god is their stomach, and their glory is in their shame.' (Philippians 3:19). Our struggle with gluttony is often the outward sign of a spiritual hunger for acceptance, love, or self-worth. This desire for satisfaction cannot be satisfied by food alone.

How can we overcome gluttony?

Glorify God with your body: 'Do you not know that your bodies are temples of the Holy Spirit, who is in you, whom you have received from God?' (1 Corinthians 6:19). Paul reminds us that our bodies belong to God; as temples of the Holy Spirit, we should use them to glorify God.

While we have freedom in the things we consume, we are also called to honour God in our actions.

Exercise self-control: 'live by the Spirit, and you will not gratify the desires of the flesh.' (Galatians 5:16). Paul goes on to list self-control as one of the Fruits of the Spirit (5:23). As we examine ourselves and identify those areas where we lack self-control, we can entrust them to God, asking for the strength of the Holy Spirit to overcome gluttony.

We recognise that true satisfaction is only found in a desire for God alone: 'Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for righteousness, for they will be filled.' (Matthew 5:6).

The Accord of Winchester 1072

The Accord of Winchester is the 11th Century dispute that establishes the primacy of the Archbishop of Canterbury over the Archbishop of York. The dispute started soon after the Norman Conquest of 1066. The dispute was between Archbishop Thomas of York and Lanfranc the new Norman Archbishop of Canterbury. Soon after Lanfranc had taken office, he started pressing for primacy for Canterbury.

The case was first heard by King William 1 at the old Saxon Royal Capital of Winchester at Easter 1072 in the Royal Chapel in the castle. It was then heard at Windsor at Pentecost on the 27th of May of the same year where the final settlement was made with William 1 deciding in favour of the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Lanfranc saw this as a victory and the document was formalised. However, the dispute dragged on for years and in 1127 York appealed to the Papacy.

A Pastoral Letter to the Diocese of Lincoln – Eastertide 2026

Dear friends,

Eastertide is a season of new beginnings. As we celebrate Christ's victory over death and sin, we look for signs of Resurrection in ourselves, in our churches and in our world. As Christians, we are called to 'walk in newness of life.'

At the Easter Vigil this year, at which I witnessed more than thirty disciples making that journey through the joy of Holy Baptism and Confirmation, I spoke of the story of our salvation and how God is continually doing a 'new thing' in the lives of his people. My hope and prayer for our diocesan family is that together we will discover God at work in our own new beginnings.

Recently we welcomed Bishop Jean to the diocese, to her new role as Bishop of Grimsby. Her arrival marks a new chapter for the people and places with whom she will work, serve and pray, as well as a new beginning in Bishop Jean's own life and ministry.

I want to ask you now: what 'new thing' is God doing in your life? If God is continually calling us to walk in newness of life, then I ask you, during these days of Easter, to ponder, listen and explore how God might be calling you to seek his kingdom and serve his people in new ways. I profoundly believe that in different ways we are like those first disciples, who as they walked the Road to Emmaus, were greeted by the Risen Lord.

Here are some possible things to consider:

1. It can be helpful to think first of practical ways in which we can live out our calling as Christians. Across the diocese, there are churches of all shapes and sizes serving one another and our communities through prayer and worship, pastoral care, outreach to those in need, foodbanks, warm spaces, advocacy, working with young people, supporting local schools – to name only a fraction of the work and ministry we do together! Thank you for this. If you haven't yet got involved in any of these things, might this be the year to do so?

2. Then, this is the season of annual meetings and elections. There are many different ways to support the life of the church (and wider community) as officers and elected representatives, for example as Churchwardens, PCC members and Parish Safeguarding Officers, without whom our parishes could not function safely and faithfully. Might you consider standing for election? If you already intend to do so, or have done so faithfully for many years – thank you!

3. The coming-together of many of our Deaneries this summer reminds us of other important ways in which we can take part in our governance, for example through Deanery Synod, Diocesan Synod and General Synod. Could you share your voice in this way, discerning and shaping the work of the Church in our generation?

4. Then, there are other opportunities of which you may not yet be aware. Is there a special aspect of our common life which is important for you? We are looking to develop new roles for Diocesan Advisors who will offer guidance and expertise in particular areas to parishes, staff and trustees. In this context, I particularly wish to thank Martin Joy, who recently stepped down as our Diocesan Disability Advisor and who served with real passion and dedication to this important work. Might you consider serving in this role? Please contact the Bishops' Office (bishops.office@lincoln.anglican.org) for further information about these possibilities.

5. Another way in which we can resource and support our shared life is through chaplaincy. We have dedicated chaplains supporting people in schools, hospitals, hospices, prisons, and emergency services. Armed Forces chaplains serve in bases across the county and abroad. We have been blessed with agricultural chaplains who care for our rural communities and industries. Our Anna Chaplains reach out to older members of our local communities in a context of prayer and pastoral care. These are just some examples of the way in which chaplaincy enriches the life of the Church.

6. It is in the context of chaplaincy and the Church's commitment to pastoral ministry that I want to talk about Living in Love and Faith. This process was brought to a close earlier this year. I know that there remains much pain, concern and anxiety with regard to sexuality and gender in the Church. I believe that we need to continue the work of listening to the experience of LGBTQIA+ people, offering pastoral support and leading in missional engagement. Services such as Open Table, in the city of Lincoln and elsewhere, provide valuable space for this. Another practical support, which many other dioceses already offer, is a team of volunteer chaplains. I am grateful to Rachel Heskins and David Margaron who have offered for, and been appointed to, this important ministry, and I will commission them at a service at Lincoln Cathedral later this year. LGBTQIA+ Christians are part of our Church and our presence and contribution should be celebrated.

7. I recognise, also, that there are individual Christians and supporting churches who hold a conservative position on sexuality. If, as above, the appointment of chaplains to provide pastoral support in this context would be welcomed, then I would be glad to enable that. I remain deeply thankful for the ways in which we live with difference in the Diocese of Lincoln, remembering the respectful way in which we spoke about these matters in Diocesan Synod, and believing that this is a gift we might offer to the wider Church.

8. There is a rich and diverse tapestry of ministry in the Church: chaplains and focal ministers, Readers and ALMs, deacons and priests, and many more. These vocations are only recognised and discerned when we take that first step towards exploring them. What new thing might be stirring in your heart? What new calling might you be seeing in someone else? We stand ready, through the work of our local churches, our College of St Hugh, our Warden of Lay Ministry, our Director of Ordinands and Vocations and the whole Vocations Team, to help all God's people explore their calling. Sunday, 26th April, was designated as Vocations Sunday in the Church of England, when we are all invited to reflect on our calling as Christians, and to pray for vocations to the Church's different ministries and offices.

Jesus tells us that the greatest commandment is to love God with all our being and to love our neighbours as ourselves. Through our Baptism, we all live out that calling in our churches, in our daily lives, in our words and deeds, in outstretched hands and in the quiet and faithful prayers of our own hearts.

In every service of new beginnings in this diocese, we pray this prayer together:

*God our Father, in the name of Christ
and in the power of the Spirit:
we commit ourselves to you and to one another,
to live, work and pray as one body in Christ;
to do apart nothing which we can do together,
and to do together what we cannot do apart.
Give us vision, give us courage and give us joy,
that the world may believe that Jesus Christ is Lord to your eternal glory.
Amen.*

I invite you to consider how you might respond to the calling of God and his Church. Let this now be our prayer for all that lies ahead of us as God's people in Greater Lincolnshire.

With every blessing,

The Rt Revd Dr Nicholas
Chamberlain
Bishop of Grantham
Acting Bishop of Lincoln
